The Clymer Ovation.

"I came, I saw, I conquered!" were the memorable words of Caesar. "I came, I saw, I routed!" should be the exclamation of Clymer, like Caesar, forcible, but not like Caesar, invincible. From it!

It had been Mr. Clymer's intention to remain here over the Sabbath. But Mr. Clymer was disappointed, and accordingly Mr. Clymer "boasted."

We do not blame Clymer. He had been given to understand that there was a great Democratic party in Titusville, and he anticipated a reception befitting his position as the standard bearer of that wing of Democracy which opposed the war; which fought our Union soldiers while they were fighting rebels; which charged them in the rear; which attempted to defeat Legislative appropriations for their benefit; which belittled our soldiers' victories and magnified their defeats; which threatened if it once got into power to withdraw our armies from the field; which informed the capture of Jeff Davis and rejoiced in the assassination of Abraham Lincoln; and which now desires to sacrifice the glorious results of the war, by admitting red-handed rebels in Congress and allowing them to accomplish by legislation what they were unable to do by force of arms!

Personally, Mr. Clymer is a gentleman; politically, he is a Tory, and the mass of his supporters are strongly biased in their favor.

But "having eyes see not, neither ears hear not" are the words of the Constitution.

He has no right to speak for Congress than for the Republican party.

Mr. Clymer's record and his lame and impotent attempts to whitewash it. Had he a word in condemnation of the South? No! Was there a patriotic attorney throughout his entire speech? No! He appealed to law preludes and started false issues, and so far from inspiring enthusiasm either in behalf of himself as a candidate or the principles which he avowed, he clearly intensified the popular distrust and disappointment of his most zealous friends and supporters.

The whole proceeding was a ridiculous failure.

The demonstration was in no way creditable to the party or its candidate. There has been such a hullabaloo of late about the strength of the Democracy and the intellectual power of its Great Mogul, that we anticipated an imposing display both in the streets and at the Opera House. This was very little in either. The oration fell flat, and Mr. Clymer—"bold" as we are glad the "demonstration" occurred. It was served in every way to open the eyes of the people. For the first time since the cessation of the war they have heard such names as Stonewall Jackson shouted with admiration, and they have heard Union soldiers execrated in the streets of Titusville. "Damn them!" said one man (thank God he don't belong in Titusville); they have nothing to fight with now but bare hands!" and another significantly remarked to a companion: "I have seen the time when I couldn't come into Titusville and say what I wanted to; but now I can talk as I please!"

Union men of Titusville! do you understand the issues of this election? Do you know that it is the most important upon which you ever cast a vote? And will you make no earnest and united effort to establish unfeignedly by your votes the great principles for which as a loyal people you have fought and conquered, and for which hundreds of thousands of loyal men have sacrificed their lives? Ponder calmly, dispassionately, and in full view of the vast and enduring consequences; and may God guide you to a wise decision!

CLYMER.

The Clymer Mass Meeting—Full Account of the "Grand Demonstration"—Clymer's Speech—What he Said and What he Didn't Say—Whitewashing the Record.

The long talked of Clymer Mass Meeting, extensively advertised by posters at every crossroads within fifteen miles of Titusville, came off according to appointment on Saturday afternoon, and as we anticipated, proved, so far as numbers and enthusiasm were concerned, a stupendous failure.

THE ARRIVAL—HONORS OF WAR.

Mr. Clymer arrived on the noon train from Petroleum Centre, and was received at the depot by the Dark Lantern Club, who marched in procession, about fifty strong, to the music of drums and trumpets, and carrying partisan banners in conjunction with an American flag. The canon was repeatedly fired as a mark of respect to Mr. Clymer, and its thunder tones probably reminded that gentleman of his patriotic course in opposing the war for the Union, and justifying our Southern brethren trampling under foot a flag which closely resembled the one at the head of THE PROCESSION.

The procession comprised a band of music, four horsemen, two carriages and about fifty men and boys on foot, representing the "Democracy" of Titusville. The delegations from the country numbered about as many more. We have no intention of belittling the affair, and we accordingly give the outside figures.

The meeting was held in Bliss Opera House, which had a seating capacity for about 300 persons, and was very nearly filled, a goodly portion of the audience being staunch Republicans.

THE ORGANIZATION.

Squire Neill, of Nellisburg, where the Palmetto flag was so often displayed during the early days of secession, was very appropriately elected to preside, and an unusual number of Vice-Presidents and Secretaries were appointed. They were selected from the Club, and in this the Democracy exhibit their good intentions. If they cannot elect men to office by the votes of the people, they can at least divide the honors at public meetings among those who "come down" pretty liberally for the consideration.

MR. CLYMER'S SPEECH.

Such were the patriotic services rendered by Mr. Clymer during the war for the Union! He actually named three Capitals for a regiment in Berks! He had no excuse to offer for voting against arming the State in 1861; against collecting the direct tax in 1863; against the bill to punish treasonable offenses in 1863; against giving bounties to volunteers in 1863; against allowing Andrew Johnson and other loyal Democrats to be heard in the Capitol, asserting that "by no vote of his could any person holding such views address the people of Pennsylvania in that chamber."

MR. CLYMER'S DELUSION.

He forgot all this and much more of similar purport, for he could not belie his record, and he concluded his address with the ridiculous assumption that the people of Pennsylvania would reward his services with 20,000 majority at the October election.

DISAPPOINTMENT.

His speech created no enthusiasm, and it is safe to say that he made no votes for himself. If any person went there with the expectation that Mr. Clymer would relieve himself of the charges which are a part of the official record of the Legislature during his Senatorial career, they were grievously disappointed, and certainly they were not the men who complimented the Yankie-hounds of Pennsylvania with three cheers at the close of his oration.

LET CLYMER TALK.

We want no better co-laborer than Hester Clymer. If his party will only keep him on the stump from now till October, he will do more good for the Republicans, Union party than all the campaign documents they can circulate. And if the Copperpotter Dark-Lanterners will only give two or three more public exhibitions, the Republican Union Club will be relieved of a good deal of labor which they will else have to perform.

WHY NOT IN HELL?

The North, he said, went into the war to restore the Union, and now that the Union was restored he wanted to know why ten States were excluded from participation in the Government. Having completed treason and rebellion he was in favor of readmitting the traitors and rebels to Congress. In other words, what they could not accomplish by the bayonet he was in favor of giving them an opportunity to effect by legislation.

WHAT STUPIDITY.

But the way had not stopped at his legitimate conclusion, for the negroes had been here, and Congress had passed a Civil Rights bill, virtually making the negro superior to the white man. This claptrap was loudly cheered. Then the Free-men's Bureau bill, he argued, appropriated $1,000,000 to feed worthless negroes, and this iniquitous tax had to be paid by the white laborers of the North. When did the Republican party ever make an appropriation for the poor whites of the North? This nonentity was also loudly applauded. Mr. Clymer might better have asked what party brought on the war and plunged the nation into a national debt of twenty-seven hundred millions! He had better have demonstrated in what manner the concession of civil rights to the negro made him superior to the white man. He had better have shown that the object of the Freedmen's Bureau was simply to systematize the labor of the freedmen and see that their contracts for labor were fulfilled, and that the various issued through the agency of the Bureau are distributed among intelligent colored to a far larger extent, proportionally, than among blacks.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

Mr. Clymer was opposed to the Constitutional Amendments upon the ground that the Republican party did not want them adopted. Of this he was convinced, and that the mistake was carried through Congress for political effect, and to carry the Republicans through the fall election. He did not, however, fully understand the nature of the Constitutional Amendments, and he anticipated a reception befitting his position as the standard bearer of that wing of Democracy which opposed the war; which fought our Union soldiers while they were fighting rebels; which charged them in the rear; which attempted to defeat Legislative appropriations for their benefit; which belittled our soldiers' victories and magnified their defeats; which threatened if it once got into power to withdraw our armies from the field; which informed the capture of Jeff Davis and rejoiced in the assassination of Abraham Lincoln; and which now desires to sacrifice the glorious results of the war, by admitting red-handed rebels in Congress and allowing them to accomplish by legislation what they were unable to do by force of arms!

Mr. Clymer is a gentleman; politically, he is a Tory, and the mass of his supporters are strongly biased in their favor.

But "having eyes see not, neither ears hear not" are the words of the Constitution.

He has no right to speak for Congress than for the Republican party.

Mr. Clymer's record and his lame and impotent attempts to whitewash it. Had he a word in condemnation of the South? No! Was there a patriotic attorney throughout his entire speech? No! He appealed to law preludes and started false issues, and so far from inspiring enthusiasm either in behalf of himself as a candidate or the principles which he avowed, he clearly intensified the popular distrust and disappointment of his most zealous friends and supporters.

The whole proceeding was a ridiculous failure.

The demonstration was in no way creditable to the party or its candidate. There has been such a hullabaloo of late about the strength of the Democracy and the intellectual power of its Great Mogul, that we anticipated an imposing display both in the streets and at the Opera House. This was very little in either. The oration fell flat, and Mr. Clymer—"bold" as we are glad the "demonstration" occurred. It was served in every way to open the eyes of the people. UNION MEN OF TITUSVILLE! do you understand the issues of this election? Do you know that it is the most important upon which you ever cast a vote? And will you make no earnest and united effort to establish unfeignedly by your votes the great principles for which as a loyal people you have fought and conquered, and for which hundreds of thousands of loyal men have sacrificed their lives? Ponder calmly, dispassionately, and in full view of the vast and enduring consequences; and may God guide you to a wise decision!

THE CANDIDATE.

But he went on to say that he stood there as the exponent of Democratic principles, and he asked the confidence and support of the party, if every man does his duty, said Mr. G., we have struck the last blow at treason and rebellion (which is undoubtedly true) and shown that it would boast very few sympathizers in this community. But men are easily hoodwinked and deluded by affectations of patriotism and the bugbear cry of "down with the nigger!"

THE APPEAL OF THE SOUTHERN LOYALISTS.

The eloquent and forcible appeal of the Southern Loylists, an abstract of which was furnished in our telegraphic report of Thursday, is to-day printed entire, on the first page of THE HERALD.

THE REPUBLICANS of Centreville meet this evening to organize a campaign club.

GENERAL GRANT.

Mr. Clymer spoke of Gen. Grant as a Democrat without guile. He thought it a little singular that the Republicans always selected former Democrats for candidates, but did not note that they were invariably Democrats who had repudiated their political associations and had been "born again" into a higher and nobler faith. Gen. Grant, said he, has served in two wars, and I leave it to his courage to say with what results. [A voice: "yes, the niggers!"] To the credit of Mr. Clymer, he resented this interrup-

TITUSVILLE, September 6.

New Year of the Israelites.

Last evening, Sept. 9th, according to the Hebrew Law, commenced the new year of the Israelites, and the celebration of the event by those of the Jewish faith, lasts two days, terminating on the evening of the eleventh.

These two days are called "Day of Memorial" or "Day of blowing the Cornet;" (Num. 35:1). These are the first two days of the Month of Tishri, and were considered most likely, since the return of Zerubbabel to Palestine, the civil New Year—in Hebrew "Roesh haShanah." Extra.

The blowing of the cornet is intended to rouse the people to remember:

1. The goodness, justice and omnipotence of God, the King of all creatures.

2. The blessings of God which they enjoyed in the past; the happiness and quietude which passed through every heart; the good or evil doing every one entered into the book of eternal memory; how much better or worse man has grown during the past year, and what lot he deserves in the coming year from the hands of his Maker.

Man, thus going to judgment with himself, is to be tried with himself, to see if he deserves to be condemned.

On the day of judgment, the people are to be tried with themselves, and the angels are to be tried with the people.

These two days are called "Day of Memorial" or "Day of blowing the Cornet;" (Num. 35:1).
